2017 VCI Courses

Session I (July 3 – July 14)

SPIR 634: The Virtues in the Spiritual Life (Rev. Brian Mullady, O.P.)

This course examines the key moral virtues for successful living the consecrated life. These virtues are first summarized in general, then particular virtues are treated such as: prudence, religion, magnanimity, patience, and perseverance, etc.—and how to develop them in fidelity to a rule of life. The intention is to show that the consecrated life is both a call and a means to heroic virtue.

CONL 623: Scriptural Foundations of the Consecrated Life (Rev. Gregory Dick, O.PRAEM.)

This course will examine the Scriptural foundations of the consecrated life as found in the Gospels and other New Testament writings, especially those of St. Paul.

Session II (July 17 – July 28)

CONL 719: Ecclesiology and the Consecrated Life (Rt. Rev. Eugene Hayes, O.PRAEM.)

This course presents the ecclesiology of Vatican II, and an examination of the nature of renewal and the ecclesiology of communion. The topics covered serve as a basis for developing an ecclesial spirituality that emphasizes the universal call to holiness and the need for all the baptized, but especially those in the consecrated life, to participate in the life and mission of the Church.

CONL 625: Vatican II and the Consecrated Life (Rev. Thomas Nelson, O.PRAEM.)

This course examines the documents of Vatican II, along with the post-Conciliar teaching on consecrated life, especially that of Pope St. John Paul II, including Redemptionis Donum and Vita Consecrata.

VITA CONSECRATA INSTITUTE

The Vita Consecrata Institute (VCI) is an enriching four-week program of spiritual renewal and graduate-level studies in Spirituality and the Theology of the Consecrated Life. The VCI is designed with religious, priests, and other consecrated persons in mind offering spiritual nourishment in a four-week program or a two-week session. The VCI program is co-sponsored by the INSTITUTE ON RELIGIOUS LIFE and the Christendom Graduate School combining the opportunity for students to take courses for credit towards a master's degree or audit courses for personal enrichment. The program, held at Christendom's Front Royal campus on the banks of the Shenandoah River, is highly recommended for religious preparing for vows and for formation or leadership roles in your institution.

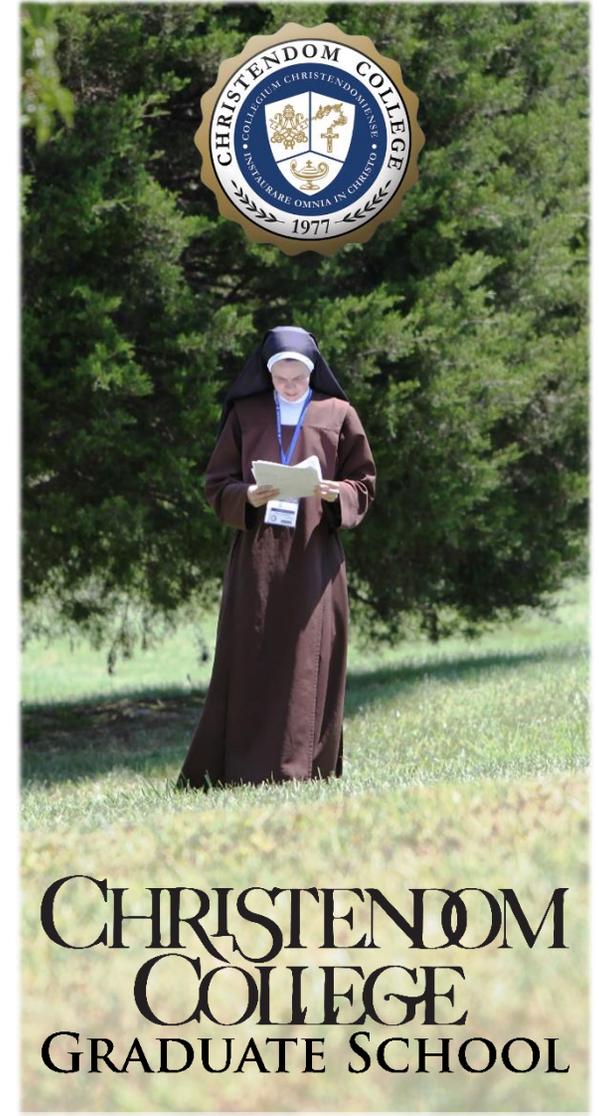

Christendom College does not discriminate against any applicant or student on the basis of race, sex, color, or national origin.
